

Comments on Jacob 4

Chapter 4 serves as a prelude to ch. 5. In the 1st Edition Book of Mormon the text of these two chapters were combined. Verses 1-13 detail the acceptance of Christ by the Nephites, and their general acceptance and understanding of the OT Prophets. Verses 14-18 then contrast the Nephites with Judah at Jerusalem who generally reject the Prophets and subsequently Christ. This then necessitates an answer to the question "How can these people who reject Christ be saved?" (v. 17), and Jacob intends to answer that question (v. 18) using the allegory of olive trees (ch. 5).

1 NOW behold, it came to pass that I, Jacob, having ministered much unto my people in word, (and I cannot write but a little of my words, because of the difficulty of engraving our words upon plates) and we know that the things which we write upon plates must remain; 2 But whatsoever things we write upon anything save it be upon plates must perish and vanish away; but we can write a few words upon plates, which will give our children, and also our beloved brethren, a small degree of knowledge concerning us, or concerning their fathers-- 3 Now in this thing we do rejoice; and we labor diligently to engraven these words upon plates, hoping that our beloved brethren and our children will receive them with thankful hearts, and look upon them that they may learn with joy and not with sorrow, neither with contempt, concerning their first parents. 4 For, for this intent have we written these things, that they may know that we knew of Christ, and we had a hope of his glory many hundred years before his coming; and not only we ourselves had a hope of his glory, but also all the holy prophets which were before us.

5 Behold, they believed in Christ and worshiped the Father in his name, and also we worship the Father in his name. And for this intent we keep the law of Moses, it pointing our souls to him; and for this cause it is sanctified unto us for righteousness, even as it was accounted unto Abraham in the wilderness to be obedient unto the commands of God in offering up his son Isaac, which is a similitude of God and his Only Begotten Son. 6 Wherefore, we search the prophets, and we have many revelations and the spirit of prophecy; and having all these witnesses we obtain a hope, and our faith becometh unshaken, insomuch that we truly can command in the name of Jesus and the very trees obey us, or the mountains, or the waves of the sea.

7 Nevertheless, the Lord God showeth us our weakness that we may know that it is by his grace, and his great condescensions unto the children of men, that we have power to do these things.

v1-7 Jacob taught his people a great deal by speaking to them firsthand (v. 1). But, he knows that only if he engraves his words will they be preserved for future generations (v. 2). He rejoices in this, because in doing so the future generations will receive his words and know they believed in Christ (v. 3). They want their children to know they believed these things just as the Prophets who preceded them did (v. 4).

This is why they keep the Law of Moses, because it represents and symbolizes Christ (v. 5). By observing the Law, and searching the prophets, and by revelations, and the spirit of prophecy do they obtain powerful firsthand testimonies of Christ (v. 6).

Jacob then parenthetically informs the reader that although they have great faith and power to perform miracles, the Lord still gives them weakness so they may acknowledge it is His grace which enables them to do any miracle (v. 7).

8 Behold, great and marvelous are the works of the Lord. How unsearchable are the depths of the mysteries of him; and it is impossible that man should find out all his ways. And no man knoweth of his ways save it be revealed unto him; wherefore, brethren, despise not the revelations of God. 9 For behold, by the power of his word man came upon the face of the earth, which earth was created by the power of his word. Wherefore, if God being able to speak and the world was, and to speak and man was created, O then, why not able to command the earth, or the workmanship of his hands upon the face of it, according to his will and pleasure? 10 Wherefore, brethren, seek not to counsel the Lord, but to take counsel from his hand. For behold, ye yourselves know that he counseleth in wisdom, and in justice, and in great mercy, over all his works.

v8-10 Jacob glories in the exalted nature of Lord. He is above man in all things, and man cannot perceive all of His way unless He reveals it. Thus, man should welcome the revelations of God and not despise them (v. 8). The Lord is so powerful that He spoke and all the world was created, so why shouldn't He speak and command His creations what to do? (v. 9) Thus, man ought not to attempt to counsel God, but rather should be taking counsel from Him, as He is just and wise (v. 10).

11 Wherefore, beloved brethren, be reconciled unto him through the atonement of Christ, his Only Begotten Son, and ye may obtain a resurrection, according to the power of the resurrection which is in Christ, and be presented as the first-fruits of Christ unto God, having faith, and obtained a good hope of glory in him before he manifesteth himself in the flesh. 12 And now, beloved, marvel not that I tell you these things; for why not speak of the atonement of Christ, and attain to a perfect knowledge of him, as to attain to the knowledge of a resurrection and the world to come? 13 Behold, my brethren, he that prophesieth, let him prophesy to the understanding of men; for the Spirit speaketh the truth and lieth not. Wherefore, it speaketh of things as they really are, and of things as they really will be; wherefore, these things are manifested unto us plainly, for the salvation of our souls. But behold, we are not witnesses alone in these things; for God also spake them unto prophets of old.

v11-13 Jacob then exhorts his brothers to reconcile themselves to God through Christ, so they may obtain the First Resurrection (v. 11). He then asks his brothers why they should marvel that one such as him, so long beforehand, should know of Christ and of the Resurrection (v. 12). He tells them that it is because the Spirit speaks the truth, as things are and will be. So, those who have the spirit of prophesy know these things beforehand, as did the prophets of old (v. 13).

14 But behold, the Jews were a stiffnecked people; and they despised the words of plainness, and killed the prophets, and sought for things that they could not understand. Wherefore, because of their blindness, which blindness came by looking beyond the mark, they must needs fall; for God hath taken away his plainness from them, and delivered unto them many things which they cannot understand, because they desired it. And because they desired it God hath done it, that they may stumble. 15 And now I, Jacob, am led on by the Spirit unto prophesying; for I perceive by the workings of the Spirit which is in me, that by the stumbling of the Jews they will reject the stone upon which they might build and have safe foundation. 16 But behold, according to the scriptures, this stone shall become the great, and the last, and the only sure foundation, upon which the Jews can build. 17 And now, my beloved, how is it possible that these, after having rejected the sure foundation, can ever build upon it, that it may become the head of their corner? 18 Behold, my beloved brethren, I will unfold this mystery unto you; if I do not, by any means, get shaken from my firmness in the Spirit, and stumble because of my over anxiety for you.

v14-18 Unlike the Nephites in general, the Jews in general were hardhearted, and they rejected the plain truth and the spirit of prophecy. The result is they became spiritually blind, and stumbled (v. 14). Jacob perceives this spiritual blindness will be so bad it will cause them to reject Christ when he is made manifest to them (v. 15-16). But, after rejecting Christ, how is they can possibly be saved? (v. 17). Jacob will answer that, if his anxiety doesn't overpower him (v. 18), and so we are led on to ch. 5.

v16 "according to the scriptures", referring to Isa. 8:13-15.

Copyright © 2004 by S. Kurt Neumiller <kurtn@cybcon.com>. All rights reserved. No part of this text may be reproduced in any form or by any means for commercial gain without the express written consent of the author. Digital or printed copies may be freely made and distributed for personal and public non-commercial use.